Georgia Institute of Technology

Atlanta, Georgia

July 2000-Present

Director, Office of Technology Policy & Programs

Principal Research Scientist, School of Public Policy

- Established office to guide the development of the technology policy agenda of the Georgia Research Alliance research institutions and partners.
- Leads the development of innovative policies and creates programs that foster and stimulate Georgia's movement into new technology areas and that strengthen the State's position in existing technology arenas.
- Leads staff in the creation of services that provide value-added regulatory and technology policy information to business incubators and the technical and academic partners of the GCATT enterprise. Creator of the Technology Policy Paper Series, occasional and permanent.
- Principal Investigator and director for the U.S. Dept. of Education, National Institute on Disability and Rehabilitation Research (NIDRR), "Rehabilitation Engineering Research Center on Mobile Wireless Technologies for Persons with Disabilities" a five-year five million dollar grant dedicated to promoting equal and universal access to mobile wireless technologies and exploring innovative applications in addressing the needs of people with disabilities.
www.wirelessrerc.com
- Recipient of national and statewide grants. Sponsors include the Georgia Technology Authority, the National Science Foundation, and the University System of Georgia, Board of Regents. All of the work is leveraged to maximize goals and projects of the OTP and the Wireless RERC.
- Research areas include wireless, broadband, advanced technology development, spectrum utilization and management, delivery of technology services to all citizens (particularly challenged persons), development of tools to increase synergies among educational, government, community and business partnerships.

- Serves on committees at universities, community boards and industry boards.

GEORGIA RESEARCH ALLIANCE (GRA)

Clark Atlanta University and Georgia Institute of Technology
Atlanta, Georgia

April 1997 - July 2000

Eminent Scholar for Distance Learning

- Lead the GRA research institutions and other schools in the creation of partnerships to stimulate technology enriched initiatives which utilized educational telecommunications for television, radio, wireless, Internet and satellite distribution in Georgia.
- Examined the role of public policy in addressing technology's impact on education.
- Designed a collaborative virtual research center --Innovative and Dynamic Educational Applications for Learning (IDEAL), which explores how creative learning environments and stimulating technology tools can significantly improve anywhere, anytime learning and assist in retooling the workforce. Project spanned educational, community and business environments and created appropriate "hot groups" to push innovative learning technology applications into the private sector for commercialization.
- Specific research focus included wireless learning environments, interfacing satellite feeds into wireless and digital environments, last meter and bandwidth over wireless networks, asynchronous and synchronous robustness of wireless technology, and examining how 3D, Mpeg2-4 and other technologies can improve the retention and learning of complex topics for special audiences.
- Wrote and received funding and/or sponsorship from BellSouth, AT&T, Mellon Foundation, National Science Foundation and local corporate entities.
- Served on committees at universities, educational boards and industry boards.
- Provided briefings for domestic and international officials such as the Parliament South Africa, Korean ministry, and companies interested in technology, regulatory and spectrum issues, public policy trends, and telecommunications businesses.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

Washington, D.C.

November 1991 – March 1997

Associate Chief

Strategic Communications, Office of Engineering and Technology March 1995 - March 1997

- Newly created position to establish dialog with new and advanced telecommunications industries, telecommunications proprietary product development, enhance spectrum utilization, and speed the deployment of technology to the public.
- Created comprehensive external affairs company to ensure the involvement of industry, state and local officials, and the public in the FCC decision making process.
- Worked with companies in high tech corridors and their partner educational institutions to ensure awareness of new and advanced technology initiatives and the rules and regulations that might impact on product development, spectrum assignments and technology licensing.
- Provided analytical discussion of the issues, rulemaking matters and policy initiatives of the FCC to legislative and regulatory entities, industry officials, the media, and other entities affected by our decisions.
- Determined the most effective and efficient manner to nationally disseminate FCC rulings and created educational activities to promote the mission of the FCC.

- Major projects included NII/SuperNet (wireless) devices, DTV spectrum allocation transition details, Universal Service Section 254, Section 508, and Advanced Telecommunications Incentives Section 706 of the Communications Act of 1996, and public issues such as V-chip, RF hazards, equipment certification, and experimental licensing.
- Member, National Information Infrastructure Task Force Committee on Applications and Technology and the FCC Educational Technologies Task Force.
- Developed courses on technology, regulatory and privatization issues in telecommunications for the U.S. Telecommunications Training Institute and for the CONATEL Continuing Education program in South America. Met with domestic and international companies regarding the regulation of business and setting up regulatory environments.

Chief

Emergency Alert System (formerly old EBS)

November 1991 - March 1995
